DEDICATION

The individual makes the school.
Without the individual the school is . . .
. . . just a school.
Each student may either add or subtract from the total, and What each individual contributes determines the outcome of the year.
To this, the individual, who makes our school what it is,
We dedicate this yearbook.

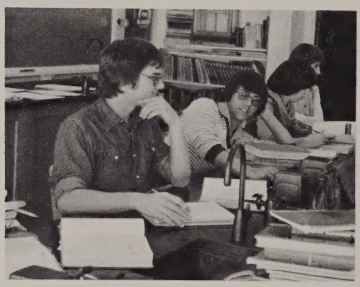
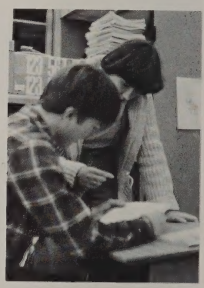
I am an individual.
One actor portraying
many characters.

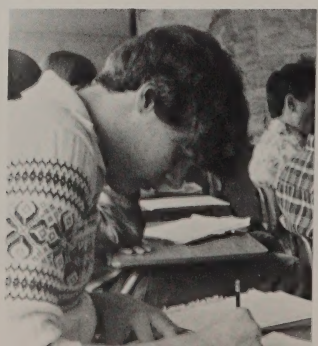
I go to a school . . . one building containing a wide variety of people, moods, and happenings.



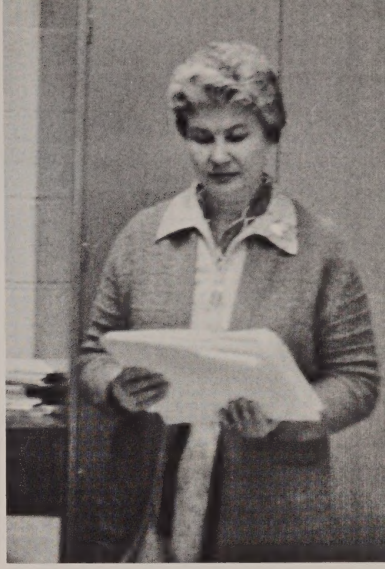


I am a senior. For five years, the school has offered to me all it has to offer. Now, I give of myself that others may grow. I am an example.

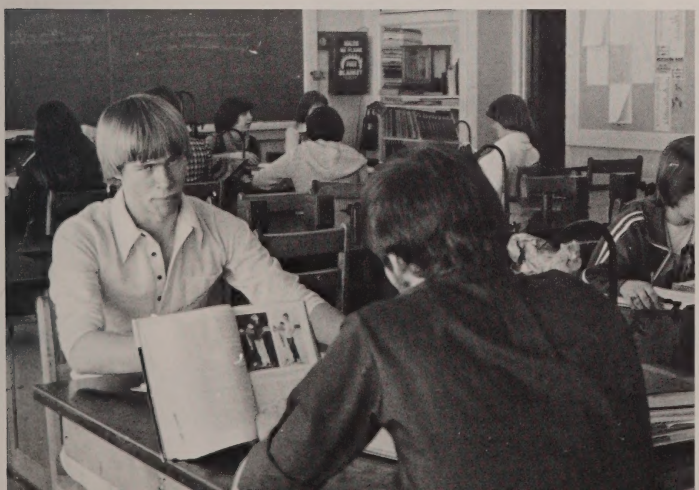
As each year passes I gain a little more knowledge and understanding. With each new year, I leave a little more of myself behind.



I must be understanding and helpful. My part is to prepare the student for life. My time and efforts are given to develop the individuals who will soon have to face the world.



In the classroom, I am a scholar. I get out of the class only what I put into it. My goal is to make good grades and prepare myself for the "world outside."



I am a member.
The organization to which I belong is a reflection of me.
I dedicate my time and energy toward its achievements.
I belong.

In the game, I am an athlete.
Throughout the long hours of hard practice, I struggle toward the final goal--victory.

Everyone claims to be an individual. But what is an individual? The dictionary defines individual as: "existing as a single indivisible entity; anything that cannot be separated into parts without losing identity."

Are we, then, right when we claim to be individuals? Every person has many different aspects to his personality. Even though he is one person, he reacts differently to every situation. He presents a different personality to his parents from the one he allows his friends to see. He has another side for teachers, one for the playing field, and still another for strangers.

If an individual "cannot be separated into parts without losing identity", then how can we be different people and still say we are one person?

That's exactly what this book is all about. When someone is able to handle his many changing personalities WITHOUT losing his true identity--then, and only then, may he claim to an individual.

SCHOOL LIFE

I go to a school . . .
One building containing a wide variety of people, moods, and happenings.

Teresa Hinebaugh Highlights Autumn Glory

The Huskies untangle themselves from a pileup with visiting Parsons during the Autumn Glory game.

Reigning as the 10th annual Autumn Glory Queen, Teresa shows her excitement after being crowned at halftime of the Northern-Parsons football game. Her escort is Scott Schwing.

The Autumn Glory Court consists of Judy Bashore-10th grade princess, Susan Carey-Maid of Honor, Teresa Hinebaugh-Queen, Becky Stanton-12th grade princess, and Mary Jane Reed-11th grade princess.

Autumn Glory escorts endure a treacherous and bumpy ride in the back of a pick-up during the parade.

The Northern majorettes march to the music of the band while spectators look on.

The kick-off assembly for the annual magazine campaign is headed by Mr. George Hanna.

Various events at Northern gain the enthusiasm of students during the first of the year. Mr. Hanna gives his introduction to the 1977 magazine campaign, explaining the elaborate prizes that can be won. Seniors become involved in the chaos of paying for senior pictures and in the distribution of them to fellow classmates. Juniors are high with anticipation upon receiving class rings while reaching deep into their pockets for the final payment. Senior announcements, thank you notes, senior keys and memory albums remind seniors that their final year at Northern WILL come to an end!

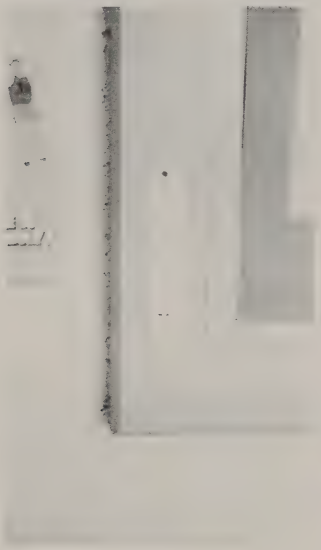
One of the big events of the senior year is the ordering of senior portraits.

Junior class rings arrive in late October. Bradley DeWitt waits eagerly in line to receive his.

Seniors listen intently as a representative from Josten's talks about announcements, keys, and caps and gowns.

Coal Strike Imposes Restrictions

Temperatures are drastically reduced 65° F. at seat level.



All extra-curricular activities after six o'clock P.M. are curtailed, and the gym stands empty.

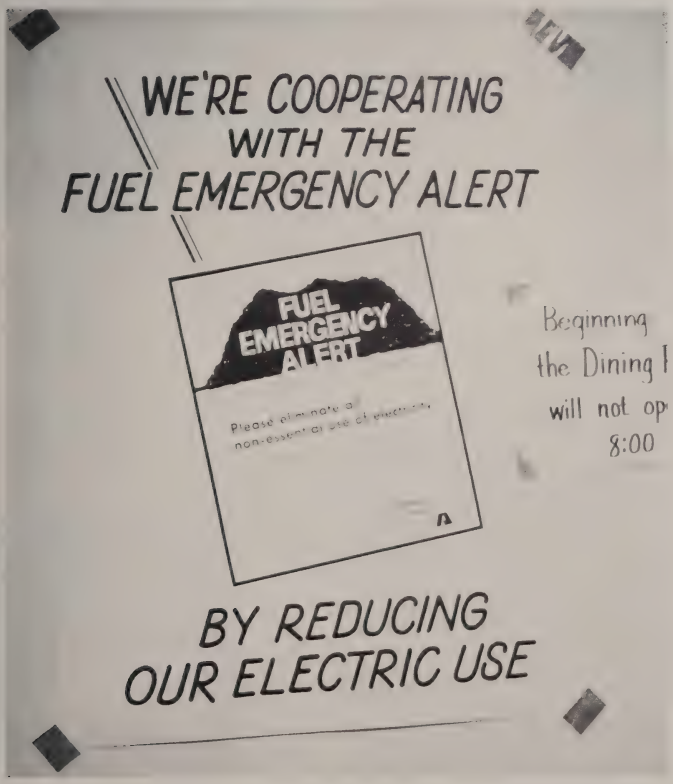
Because of lowered temperatures, some students find it necessary to wear coats in classes.

Reduced lighting is observed in the halls during classes.

As a result of the strike, many mines stand deserted.

American citizens have been given the right to strike as a channel to voice their protests. In 1977-78 we are confronted with an energy crisis stemming from a coal strike which has lasted over a hundred days. Tentative agreements have been made and rejected. Miners ignore President Carter's invoking of the Taft-Hartley Act. Non-union mines have attempted coal production but have been abruptly halted due to life-threatening pickeeters. Dwindling coal supplies force energy curtailments, and in the midst of below normal temperatures, the eastern half of the U.S. is suffering. Energy curtailments force many businesses and schools to run on a four-day week. Lights are turned off, heat is turned down, and fun activities cease to exist. An end will come to the coal strike, but it will be many months before small private businesses, large monopolies, and the U.S. economy recover from something known as the free and legal rights of American citizens.

Commercial and industrial users of Potomac Edison electricity are instructed to cut back by 20% and 30%, respectively.

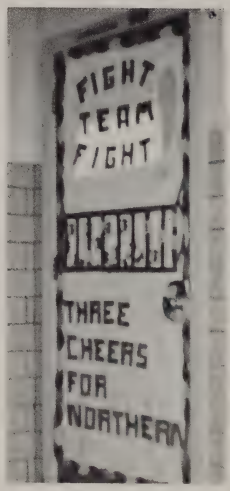


Blinds are pulled in classrooms after school hours to conserve heat.

Tammy Glisan Reigns Over Homecoming Festivities

The bleachers overflow for the final event of Homecoming week, the Northern-Southern football game.

Button day and hat day give Vickie Miller and the entire student body a chance to participate and show their spirit.

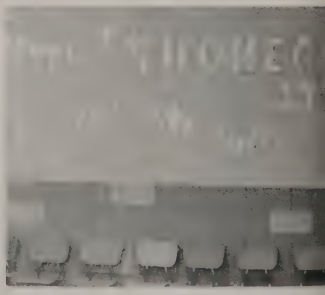


First place in the door contest for Jr. High is won by students in 9-F.

One of the highlights of the pep rally is the singing of "The Fight Song" by the Lettermen for initiation into the club.

During the pep rally Homecoming candidates are announced to the student body. They are Susan Carey, Lori Frazee, Rae Ann Brenneman, Cheryl Landon, Tammy Glisan, Elaine Rodeheaver, Becky Stanton, and Ann Hershberger.

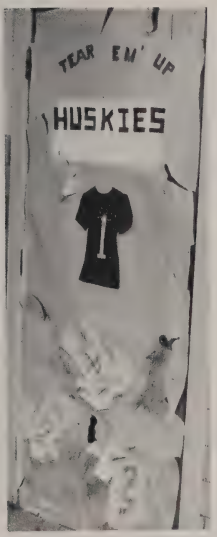
Decorations for the annual Homecoming dance evidence much time and hard work in preparation.



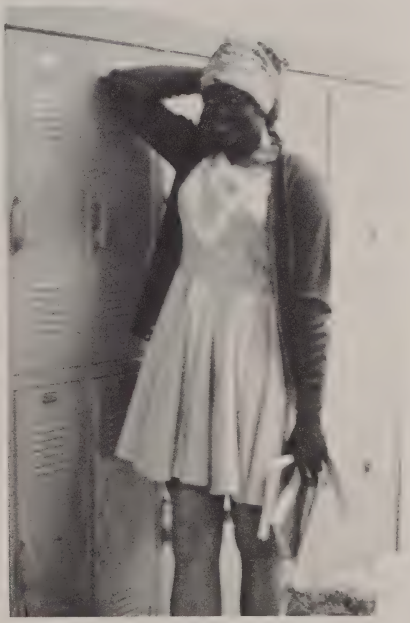
Homecoming '77 becomes an exciting event at Northern once again. Homecoming week is launched into spirit with "Spook the Rams" Day in which interested teachers and students wear costumes to spook the spirit out of Southern. Tuesday, crazy hat day, boosts spirits higher than before. Wednesday is button day. Husky buttons are sold on lunch shifts throughout the week. Thursday brings skit day; organizations perform skits pertaining to the Northern-Southern game. Friday, biggest day of all, is color day; the day ends with spirit for everyone. Friday night Tammy Glisan is crowned during halftime at the football game with Southern. The Homecoming dance, sponsored by the Varsity Cheerleaders, is held in the cafeteria, with music furnished by "Wizard."

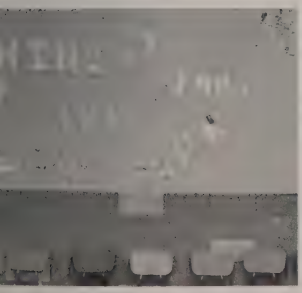
The crowd looks on as Tammy expresses the thrill of being chosen Northern's 1977 Homecoming Queen.

Homecoming week has brought a new enrollment to Northern on "Spook Southern Day" in the form of "Ms. Tonya Doerr."



Winning the first place in the door contest for Sr. High is 10-C.





First place winners in the skit day competition are the Varsity Cheerleaders.

S.F.G. Sponsors Unique Activities

Anxiously awaiting the announcement of Mr. Legs are senior basketball players and wrestlers Marlin Schrock, Scott Schwing, Tim Miller, Jamie Workman and Greg Gillum in the flesh.

Mr. Legs 1978, Scott Schwing, proudly displays his "royal attire," and, most of all, his legs.

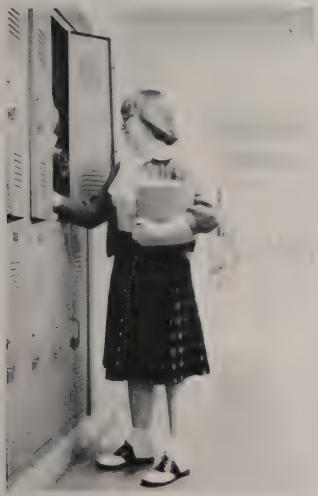
Dave Savage, SFG president, announces Scott the winner with 2,394 votes as Mrs. Yunker, Activities Committee advisor, presents a glittering sash.

"Throughout the numerous kicks, bruises and scrapes, Scott's legs have managed to keep their natural form and masculine appearance, "reads Dave Savage as Mr. Legs (Scott Schwing) and others look on.

Students Step Back Two Decades In Time

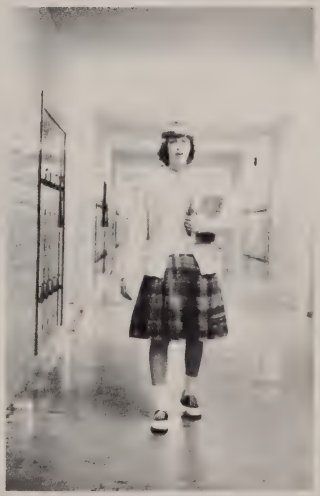
In order to boost school spirit at Northern for the inevitable basketball confrontation between Northern and Southern, the Student-Faculty Government sponsors a 50's Dress-Up Day. Numerous students participate by donning bobby socks, saddle shoes, leather jackets and the like. These fashions, along with ponytails, are seen only temporarily in today's halls, however. School is canceled the next day because of the weather, and by Monday the styles of the 70's take over again.

Years gone by are relived in fashion at Northern as Vicki Kamp is seen wearing her 50's costume.



Students at Northern, Jeanette Harman included, have rolled back the hands of time to the decade of the 50's in the rally for school spirit.

Bobby socks and saddle shoes are modeled by Sharon Fike on Dress-Up Day, typical styles of the 50's



On 50's day Susan Thomas is found roaming the halls, appearing to be ready to step into a lively jitterbug.

Music Adds Spice To N.H.S. Life

Band, chorus, and general music students are entertained by the Annapolis Brass Quintet.

Mr. Schwing directs the Sr. Band while they play a selection of Christmas songs during the annual Christmas program.

High Christmas spirits are sung out by the Sr. Chorus during the Christmas program.

1. Finishing touches are added to a skit prepared by Mark Graham, Kurt Lear and Don Skidmore for the 1978 Talent Show.

Talent Show Provides Outlet For Student Expression

Each year various programs are presented to the student body. This year was no exception. The Annapolis Brass Quintet performed a show for the students of the music department. The VIKING, our school newspaper, once more sponsored the annual Talent Show, and the band, chorus, and strings classes presented a Christmas concert. This year, as in years past, the Northern student body was provided with temporary diversions from the routine of school life.

2. A junior at Northern, Sandi Sisler displays her musical talent on the piano.

3. In preparation for the annual Talent Show, Laurie Springman and Keith Bittinger rehearse their act.

4. Guitar accompaniment is provided by Keith Bittinger as Maureen and Cinda Jenkins rehearse their duet.

Snowfall

For the second consecutive year the eastern United States experiences heavy snows. But, true to form, Garrett County's snows remain for weeks after the drifts sink and melt just an hour's drive away. In spite of Garrett County's numerous snowplows and huge blowers, wind and snow close schools for eight days during the second grading quarter, leaving students with the prospect of a shortened Easter vacation and additional school days in June.

Blankets Garrett County

Digging itself from under layers of snow is a commonplace task for Northern, but faculty and students adapt and the show goes on.

Whether in a forest or a school yard, snow-covered pine always bastes its surrounding atmosphere with a sense of peace and tranquility

Sleigh rides were a necessity a century ago, but today they are a great way to enjoy Garrett County's winter wonderland. Warren Glotfelty has busy weekends giving rides to winter sports fans.

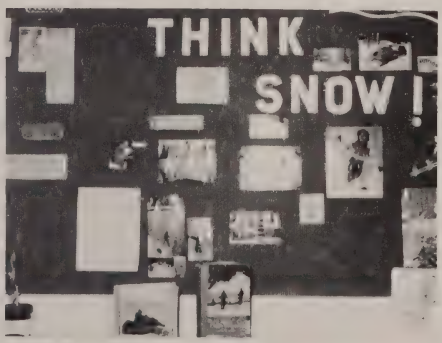
Every winter Garrett County is blanketed with a magic white substance that has the ability to draw thousands of people onto skis, snowmobiles, and sleds. Winter sports enthusiasts, both residents and non-residents of Garrett County, find that the climate and terrain lend themselves well to many winter sports activities ranging from skiing and snowmobiling to ice skating and snowball battles. Although the heavy layers of snow cause many inconveniences, they also provide an aesthetic beauty matched only by Christmas card scenes.

Throughout the winter, thousands of ski-lovers from all around flock the slopes at the Wisp to face thrills, spills, and excitement.

Cross-country skiing is good, brisk exercise. Though hundreds of visitors come to Garrett County for cross-country skiing, Karen Edmiston is one of the first students at NHS to take up the sport.

Taking advantage of one of the more popular methods of travel, Laura Stanton is transported over the white-covered ground in a snowmobile.

"If you con't beat it, join it" is a theme appropriate for Garrett Countians, and thinking of the good aspects of winter can make it more enjoyable and endurable.



Snowball Dance Creates Interlude In Long Winter

The first Snowball Dance in N.H.S. history, organized by the Student-Faculty Government, is a success. Candle-lit tables and semi-formal dress help to create a romantic atmosphere. Music provided by "Spectrum" keeps the dance floor crowded throughout the evening. The highlight of the dance is the crowning of the Queen and the recognition of the King and Princesses. The dance is a pleasant respite from the drudgery of winter.

The Student body elects as the Queen's court Nancy Jo Durst, eleventh grade princess, Lisa Clutter, ninth grade princess, and Amy Stanton, tenth grade princess.

Chosen from twelfth grade nominees for Snowball Queen is Ann Hershberger.

As Mr. Bittinger crowns Queen Ann Hershberger, Rae Ann Brenneman, Chairman of the Snowball Dance Committee, presents King Jamie Workman with a single white carnation.

In the final act of the play Petruchio (Scott Glotfelty) tames Katherine (Cora Humberson), to the amazement of the crowd.

As a third term project, the speech class presents "The Taming of the Shrew," by William Shakespeare. Every member of the class is involved in some phase of the production. Under the direction of Ms. Cherie Rettel, the cast included Allen Savage, Lori Frazee, Dave Savage, Scott Glotfelty, Steve Uphold, Kurt Lear, Tim Miller, Becky Stanton, Mark Graham, Susan Carey, Marie Guard, Cora Humberson, Ann Hershberger, Elaine Rodeheaver, and Pam Metheny.

The plot is complicated when Lucentio's real father, Vincentio, played by Lori Frazee, comes looking for his son. Biondello (Becky Stanton) tries to cover for Lucentio while Baptista (Allen Savage) eavesdrops.

Two would-be suitors, Hortensio (Kurt Lear) and Tranio (Tim Miller), are jilted by Bianca (Ann Hershberger) for Lucentio (Dave Savage).

Katherine proves how shrewish she can be by attacking Hortensio's wife (Elaine Rodeheaver) at the wedding reception.

School Day Sees Variety

Phys Ed Adds Activity To Academic Schedule

Acquiring one period in the library is very helpful to Mary Wheeler and Anna Bowman.

A quick check over materials reassures Marsha Garlitz that she is ready for her next class.

Students are kept busy during study hall with their assignments from the previous day.

Centering her paper, Debbie Bittinger prepares to type a letter from her shorthand notes.

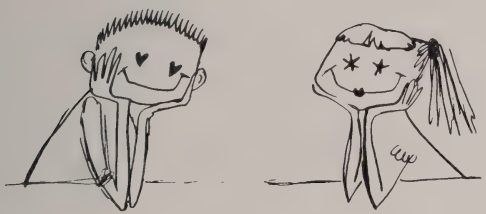
Every school year has its high lights. There are athletic and scholastic achievements. Queens are crowned, awards are given, milestones are reached. But for the individual, school life goes on between highlights. The spectacular emerges from a base of the ordinary and the mundane.

In the course of a typical school day, students move from one situation to another. A bumpy bus ride to school-and the day is well on its way to another one of remembrance.

The need for class books makes a stop at a locker a definite must-and then its off to another glorious class. Study halls and library classes become life-savers for students with forgotten homework and term papers.

School isn't always all work and no play. Breaks are taken frequently here and there during the day. To sit and chat with friends is probably the most popular break of all.

For students who enjoy typing, a break in the academic day may be provided by typing for the school paper or in a typing class.



During the busy day, Greg Gillum and Teresa Hinebaugh take some time out for a friendly conversation.

In Phys. Ed. Becky Stanton finds time to work on the hoop that will be used as an entering for the Huskies.

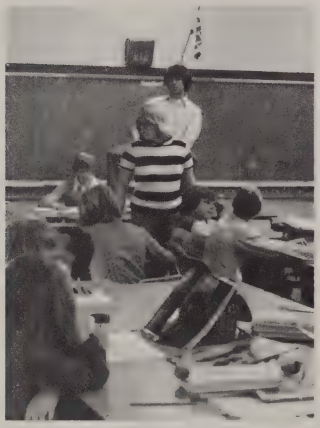
Work And Leisure Shape School Day

Activity-Oriented Classes

Fill Portion Of School Day

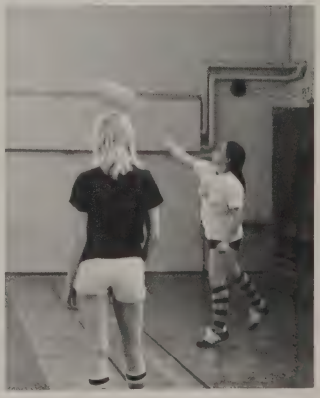
The VIKING staff is kept busy with the production of a school newspaper that has consistently received high ratings in state and national competition. Carol Ross, Julie Bowser and Teri Broadwater work on a current staff project.

In a student-directed lesson on portrait drawing, Terri Warnick teaches the class while Mr. Tusing poses as a model.



A great struggle between opposing players starts out a regular basketball game in Phys. Ed.

With extreme effort Joy VanSickle serves to the opposing team.



On days when a popular lunch is served, the "waiting game" takes longer than usual. Linda Bittinger, Denise Wilhelm and Brenda Kisner wait their turn in a slow-moving line while those ahead of them buy double portions of "Northern Pizza."

Lunch time means lunch--but Greg Fratz and Tony Doerr find that it also provides a time for talking with friends.

There are no substitutes for study when there are assignments to finish. Jim Spear studies a magazine article while his seatmate, Mike Robinson, finishes an English assignment.

Friendships Become Treasured Memories

One class that provides a combination of academics and creative activity is art. Student projects include teaching their own class and using a variety of designs and techniques. A student in the art class soon learns that there is a great deal more to art than drawing a picture, painting it, and getting it graded.

Not everyone enjoys being cooped up in a classroom all day. Some students express themselves by not participating in class work and by "carrying on" in class; others find sufficient outlet for their excess energy in the physical education classes. Volleyball and basketball are only two of the sports that students participate in. Phys. Ed. gives students a chance to unwind from the routine of the academic day.

Standing in the lunch line can be awfully tiring, and especially boring when no friends are around to gossip with. But in the end the long wait is worthwhile when students can sit down, relax, and enjoy a nourishing meal.

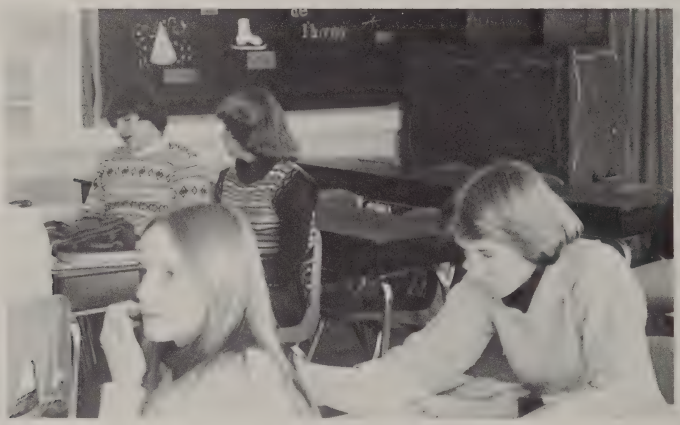
After lunch the day goes on with a continued pattern of study halls and friendships, of finishing touches added to projects, and of class achievements by hard-working students.

Perhaps there is more to education than sometimes meets the eye! Gary Rodeheaver faces his chess opponent, Don Bowman, in a quiet but intense contest while Jeff Thomas and Danny Davis look on.

Variety Adds Spice

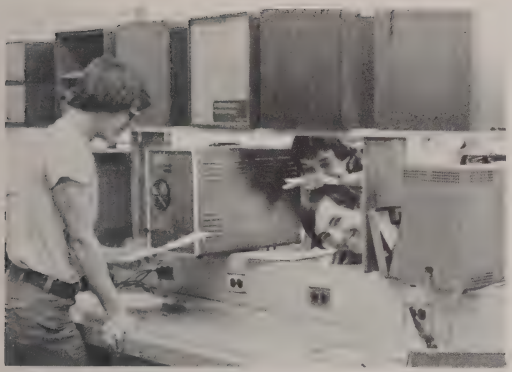
To School And Extra-Curricular Life

Meetings are held during school to discuss plans for the snowball dance to be held on February 18. Randy Glotfelty, Ramona Yoder, and Becky Stanton of the Student Government meet with committee chairman Rae Ann Brenneman.



As a fund raising project the Lettermen's Club operates the concession stand at sports events. Randy Broadwater supports his club as he buys a coke from fellow-letterman Jim Warnick.

Both Junior and Senior high students view "The Computor Wore Tennis Shoes" as a reward for outstanding magazine sales.



A moment of relaxation is enjoyed by Steve Sisler, Gerald Maust, and Marlin Schrock as they take a break from cleaning the electronics shop.

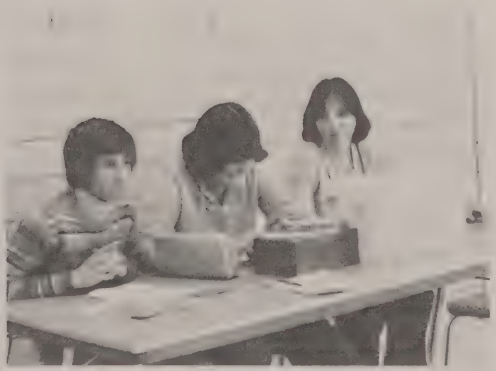
The end of a school day may consist of many things, such as missing a few classes for a movie, attending a meeting, or just thinking of refreshments to be served at the big game that night.

Though every day is filled with studies, with conversations, with activities and with routine, every day is different. Events, talks with friends, and subjects for class study are never exactly repeated. When students file out the front doors to the waiting buses, memories of the day are held by each individual--special memories of each aspect of the individual.

Opportunities for research, reading, and browsing are offered by the Northern High School library. Brenda Oester, Ed Stanton, and classmates take advantage of reading material in the library.

Students have the opportunity to make handcrafted items in wood shop. Jerry Sisler uses a vertical band saw to begin his project, a tall candleholder.

In order to raise money for the Drama Club, Trudy Carpenter, Pam Kisner, and Chris Sines sell valentines to be delivered to lockers on Valentine's Day.

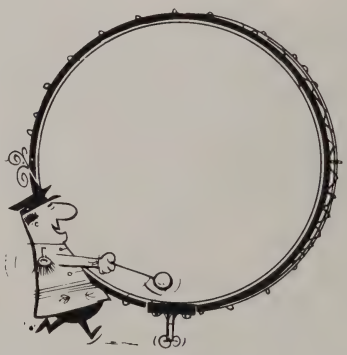


Mini Pep Rallies Stir Up Spirit On Lunch Shifts

School spirit is increased by special activities sponsored by the Student Government Activities Committee. Student participation advances and encourages school spirit and more student involvement. Students show their school patriotism by standing for the fight song and joining the cheerleaders in sideline cheers. Music, played by the Pep Band, brings school spirit alive.

Along with the cheerleaders, Fred Fox leads students in a cheer.

Varsity cheerleaders gain students' attention by singing the fight song.



Members of the Pep Band raise enthusiasm on lunch shifts.

Class History

K-by Cora Sue Humberson

For a moment, it seemed we'd stay forever young. While we were underclassmen, time moved so slowly, but 1975 marked our first year as senior high students, and the pace quickened . . . .

Elaine Rodeheaver became our sophomore class president, with Becky Stanton, Patty Oester and Susan Carey filling the posts of vice president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. Under their leadership, we sold Gem until out arms ached. Ann Hershberger was our voice in the Student Faculty Government, and Scott Schwing was elected to represent the sophomore band members in Band Council. Teresa Hinebaugh and Ann Hershberger were selected as varsity cheerleaders. Representing our class on the Drill Team were Sarah Friend, Debbie Platter, and Terri Warnick. During the Autumn Glory Festival, Susan Carey and her escort, Doug Ringer, represented the 10th grade class. Sophomores participated in many of the varsity sports, literary publications, and music organizations.

During the summer Marie Guard was a candidate for Farm Queen, and she later participated in the Autumn Glory Parade. As novice juniors, we chose as class officers Becky Stanton, president; Faith Fratz, vice president; Tammy Glisan, secretary; and Cora Humberson, treasurer. We may have wished to be seniors, but Steve D. Sisler took action and joined the class of '77. Meanwhile, we worried over class rings, the prom, and endless college admissions tests. Teresa Hinebaugh and Kurt Lear were elected to represent our class in the Autumn Glory Festival. Pam Metheny and Elaine Rodeheaver joined the ranks of the Drill Team, while Susan Carey and Becky Stanton brought the total of juniors on the varsity cheering squad to four. Representing our class in various areas were Susan Carey, Student Faculty Government member; Doug DeWitt, Band Council representative, and Scott Glotfelty, treasurer of Band Council. In the American Legion Oratorical Contest, Janice Riggs placed first. Rae Ann Brenneman worked as co-captain of the yearly magazine sales and assistant editor of the NORTH STAR. Lois Maust and Steve Sisler displayed their proficiency in U.S. History by winning the WOW History Awards. On the Girls' Basketball Team, Diane Evans served as co-captain. Scott Glotfelty was selected by Mr. Keplinger to attend a science symposium at Baltimore. The spring of our junior year brought the event that had demanded so much time, effort, and money. The prom, our gift to the departing seniors, was attended on the 21st of May. The theme was "Could It Be Magic?" and many of us found it hard to decide; McHenry House was converted into a medieval hall, and "Thor" provided music for the evening. During the summer of 1977, Susan Carey and Juanita Hanft were candidates for Farm Queen, while five brave boys attended Boys State in Annapolis. They were Mark Graham, Kurt Lear, Dave Savage, Scott Schwing, and Bobby Thomas. Janice Riggs spent a week at Girls State and later a week at Girls Nation.

Four other students that summer furthered their academic experience. Scott Glotfelty attended St. Cloud in Minnesota; Vicki Miller studied coal science at West Virginia Wesleyan; Gerald Maust attended Maryland Center for the Arts; and Scott Schwing spent a week at a Maryland forestry camp.

After a busy summer, we walked through the double doors of Northern once again, and there were no fireworks or awe-struck crowds to greet us. But we were seniors, that nebulous entity that all underclassmen respected. HA! We were still punched in the knees by speeding seventh graders; no invisible shield protected us from the airborn food in the cafeteria, and we still had to do homework. But, it was a unique year for everyone. We began by electing class officers one last time: Becky Stanton, president; Faith Fratz, vice president; Susan Carey, secretary; Gerald Maust, treasurer; Steve Sisler, parliamentarian, and Cora Humberson, historian. An activities committee was selected to plan senior festivities. Janice Riggs attended Frostburg State College during her senior year, but Larry Sisler stepped up from the class of '79 to graduate with us. Vicki Miller and Cora Humberson became co-editors of the VIKING; while, Rae Ann Brenneman served as editor of the NORTH STAR and captain of the magazine campaign. Teresa Hinebaugh and Ann Hershberger were elected as captain and co-captain of the varsity cheerleaders, respectively. Heading the Drill Team was Pam Metheny. The Student Faculty Government found new leadership with an all-senior executive board. The members included Dave Savage, president; Scott Schwing, vice president; Ann Hershberger, secretary, Becky Stanton, treasurer; and Scott Glotfelty, parliamentarian. Rae Ann Brenneman was 12th grade representative. On the Band Council, Scott Schwing, Vicki Miller, Lori Frazee, and Scott Glotfelty worked as president, vice president, secretary, and 12th grade representatives, respectively. Yvonne Baumann became a color guard, and Scott Schwing served as drum major. Dave Savage and Rae Ann Brenneman represented Garrett County in the Maryland All-State Chorus. Two senior football players were chosen to play on the Tri-Valley Football Team. They were Kurt Lear and Randy Spear. Jamie Workman and Kurt Lear lettered in 3 sports. Diane Evans became captain of the basketball team, and Becky Stanton served as captain of the Girl's Volleyball Team. While Jamie Workman and Jim Spear served as captain and co-captain of the Varsity Basketball Team, respectively, leaders for the wrestling team were Kurt Lear, Randy Broadwater, and Jack Garlitz. Scott Schwing and Cora Humberson served on the Governor's Youth Advisory Council for one year, and three students entered and won the Voice of Democracy Speech Contest for the first time. The winners were Mary Wheeler, first place; Scott Glotfelty, second place and Marie Guard, third place. In a beautiful Autumn Glory Festival Teresa Hinebaugh was crowned queen, with Scott Schwing, escort; Susan Carey as maid of honor, with Marlin Schrock escort; and Becky Stanton as 12th grade princess, with Duane Butler escort. The next queen to be crowned was Tammy Glisan during Homecoming. Her court consisted of Becky Stanton, Rae Ann Brenneman, Ann Hershberger, Elaine Rodeheaver, Lori Frazee, Cheryl Landon, and Susan Carey. The rest of senior year went by in a rush of happenings. The senior party's theme was "Don't Stop Thinking About Tomorrow," and we didn't. Senior announcements, caps, gowns, parties, and picnics-we had heard about this year for so many years, and it was great. We shall tell about it for many more years, but what the year 1977-1978 has meant and done for every one of us, only the Class of 1978 can ever understand.

Class Prayer

Father,

We love you and thank you for all you have done for us, given to us, and meant to us.

The paths on which you have led us thus far have been, though individual, entwined with each other. Our goals have been similar, and in striving to reach them we have been drawn together in a spirit of unity. But now, Dear Father, the time has come for our paths to separate. While we regret the parting of friends, we will strive to retain the eternal bond of friendship. May we always treasure the memory of our experiences together and never forget the joy of friendships shared. As we go, we pray that you will bless us with new friends, deeper experiences, and bright new lives with You by our sides. And, in the end, may our paths again be joined in one long eternity.

Each of us has had dreams to follow. Sometimes we have succeeded in reaching those dreams; often we have failed. We give you those dreams, Father, asking that you mold them to your desire, and give them back to us along with the ability to accomplish those goals according to your plan.

Fill us to overflowing with your love, your hope, and your peace, that we may share a part of you with the brotherhood of Man.

Amen.

Motto

I shall pass this way but once;
any good that I can do,
any kindness that I can show,
let me do it now,
for I shall not pass this way again.

As each year passes
I gain a little more knowledge and understanding.
With each new year
I leave a little more of myself behind.

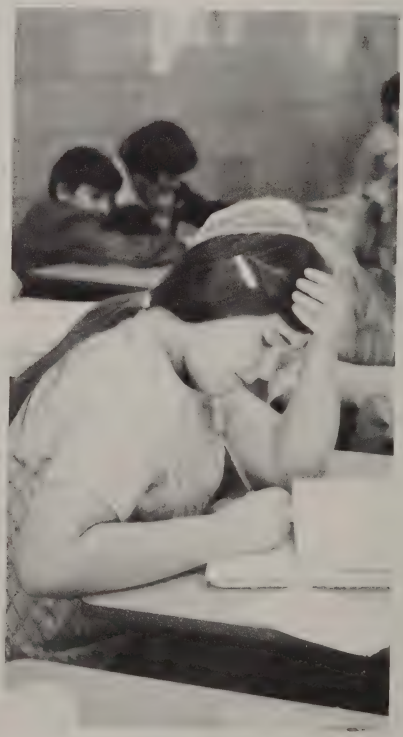
ACADEMICS

A review of basic principles of mathematics prepares seventh graders for advancement to more difficult math classes.

Numbers And Symbols Gain Meaning With Increased Math Skills

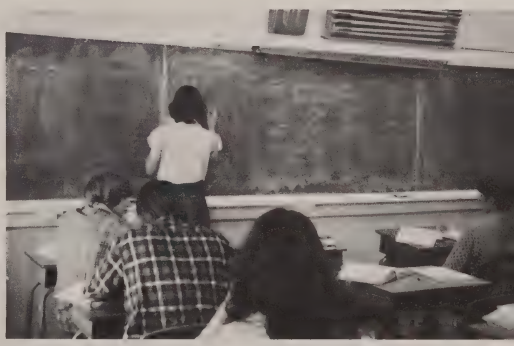


Decimals and fractions provide a mathematic challenge for eighth grade student Laverna Bender.

The first advanced math class taken by Northern students is Algebra. Ninth grade students Lori Sisler, Barry Maust, and Tim Kinsinger concentrate on the new concepts of this type of math.

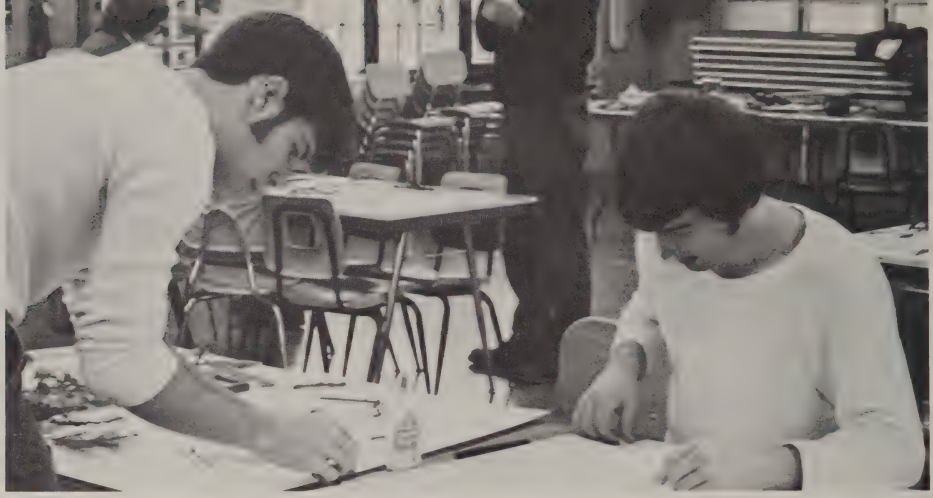
Visions of parrallelograms, proofs, and postulates dance busily through the minds of students as the geometry class convenes.

Math is a mixture of characteristics -- a mixture of geometric figures, variables and mumbers. Artistic concepts materialize in some types of math with triangles and planes. Other divisions explore the field of science and the unknown. Math makes people create, think logically-- sometimes abstractly. Students taking courses in this area can find variety and constant change. Every aspect of math is not always in black and white, but math is a subject in which previous knowledge and rules can be applied to draw reasonable conclusions.



Fundamentals of Algebra II are used by Carol Ross to solve homework problems.

Advanced math courses present problems too complex and monotonous to solve by the human mind alone. To save time, Vicki Miller is aided by a calculator in Trigonometry.



Identifying twigs is one of the many activities enjoyed by Dave Savage and Scott Schwing during their stay at Camp Hickory.

Science Investigations Bring New Insights To Students

Learning about themselves, Kim Kinsinger, Mark Hyson, and Doug Ward try to discover their own blood types in a Health Class activity.

Steady precision is needed for some projects in Health Class. Ann Hershberger makes discoveries as she dissects a cow's eyeball.

Physics students Dianne Evans and Becky Stanton set their own pace in the self-taught course with occasional assistance from their instructor, Mr. Keplinger.

Northern's Science Department extends over a large area of study. Seventh and eighth graders are introduced to laws of matter and energy. In Earth Science the mysteries of our universe are studied, and the study of the earth is divided into three basic areas: land, water and air. Biology and Health Science cover human anatomy and ecology. Ambitious students move onward to Physics, the study of forces, and Chemistry, the study of atoms and chemical composition. Northern offers a six-year program that gives pupils a balanced background in the natural sciences.

Investigations contribute to the learning of Kim Wilburn and Debbie Wagner in the eighth grade study of interaction of energy and matter.

A rural community provides the necessities for this experiment in biology. Nancy Collier and Paul Fike study the amount of various properties produced by manure under pressure.

A child's reasoning beats all as Debbie Bowman explains her ideal gift to Bill Bender, Darrel Schrock and Joyce Thomas in "A Christmas Treasure."

Drama Class Combines Talent And Hard Work In Creative Effort

To create a successful performance, the drama class sacrifices much time for rehearsal. Jack Garlitz, Faith Fratz and Brenda Fratz present "The Glass Managerie" to the drama class.

With Christmas close at hand, the spirit of good will fills Judi Bashore, Greg Brenneman and Mary Wheeler with a desire to award a Goblin with a bowl of porridge in "The Goblin at the Grocers."

After much creative thought, the typing class types Christmas cards. First place winner in the contest is Debra Fike, second place winner is Lois Maust, and third place is taken by Lori Taylor's card.

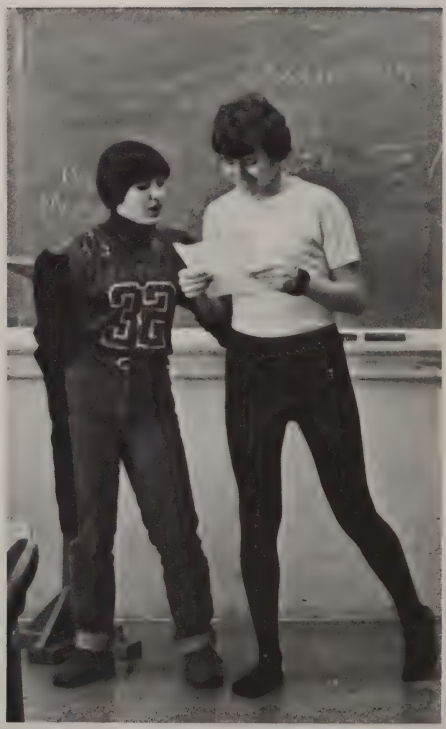
Business Classes Bring Secretarial Skills To Life

Many students who take secretarial courses use the skills they learn now to get jobs in the secretarial field. Rhonda Wengerd works on an assignment in the Secretarial Office Practice class.

Concentrating on Bookkeeping, Roger Brenneman is one of the few boys who now take secretarial courses.

After murdering his King, MacBeth(Scott Glotfelty) is chided by Lady MacBeth (Cora Humberson) for his guilt feelings in a presentation for English Literature Survey.

Unusual Projects Enhance Learning In Language Arts Departments



An advertisement for "Romeo and Juliet" is produced by Terry Edgar and Kirt Harshman.

Upon escape from the grave, Samuel Coleridge (Scott Schwing) recounts his audacious past to talk show host Kurt Lear.

The Peanuts gang, Ms. Rettel's Speech class, performs a Christmas skit for other English classes.

Language classes at Northern pep up the learning processes with various projects and activities. English classes, including studies of Shakespeare and other past authors, are becoming more meaningful and enjoyable. Reliving the past in dramatic form helps retain facts and ideas. Speech and French classes also create and perform works relevant to their studies. Students at Northern will always remember becoming part of their literature--not just learning about it.

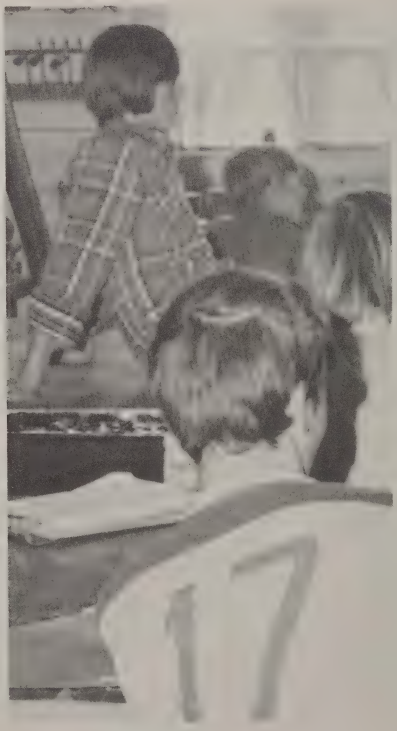
A picture is worth a thousand words as John Beitzel, Steve Wilhelm, and Jim Warnick get ideas for projects for their Creative Writing mini-course.

Christmas spirit and fun are the atmosphere as the French III class performs a skit for the other French classes.

An annual project for students in drafting is the construction of a scale model of a home. Doug DeWitt, Dave Frazee, Terry Brenneman, and Jerry Sisler strive to complete their project.

Useful Skills Developed In Industrial Arts And Electronics Courses

Practical application of principles taught in electronics aids Hillel Brandes in designing a transistor amplifier.



Before beginning projects in industrial arts, Duane Stein and his classmates concentrate on instructions given by Mr. Siljander.

An examination of an automobile engine by Steve Brenneman and Gary Baker contributes to their understanding of auto mechanics.

From understanding soil and seed to building and repairing electronic equipment, Northern's curriculum offers a wide choice of vocational courses. Introductory classes teach basic concepts in various areas of potential employment. Throughout the year specific skills and techniques are perfected by the students. Each following year in the program expands the student's knowledge of equipment and procedures. Upon completing two or three years of vocational study, some individuals find employment as a result of that study. Those who do not pursue a certain career as a result of study find that knowledge gained in these classes can be very useful in everyday life.

An oscilloscope, an instrument for measuring wavelengths, is disassembled for study by Jamie Workman, Perry Buckingham, and Phil Workman.

In order to change the speed of a metal shop lathe, Dana Rush and Don Skidmore adjust the gear ratio of the machine.

Members of the Sr. Chorus help to get the student body into the Christmas spirit with songs like "Gesu Bambino" and "Christmas Song."

Music Students Display Christmas Spirit

After months of practice, the Sr. Band is put to the final test under Mr. Schwing's direction.

Senior high volleyball teams battle for the championship, with the fourth period class team winning in the end.

Students in Physical Education classes watch for the oncoming volleyball.

Physical And Mental Health Is Advanced In Phys. Ed.

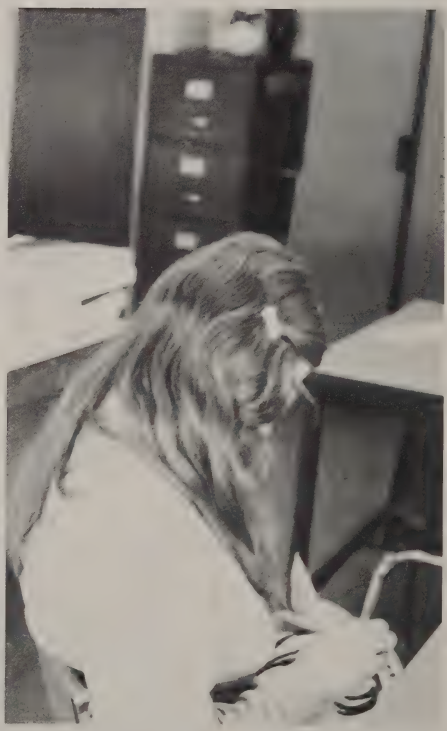
Physical Education offers a veriety of activities for students. Students enjoy the class and learn more because they have the opportunity to choose their own activities. Students can test their abilities from one extreme to another--from weightlifting to gymnastics. Basketball, bowling, and ping-pong are also offered to test one's talent in working with balls of different sizes, weights, and textures.

A new addition in the Physical Education Department is the Universal machine. Weight lifting has become popular with students such as Linda Beitzel.

The fundamentals of cake decorating are used by Denise Tacket and Janie Nugent in the Home Economics course.

Students Enjoy New Home Economic Activities

Home Economics benefits many people in their future domestic lives. The class offers many pointers on buying goods and also equips students with handy craft skills. Home Economics stresses the importance of education in nutritional and money-saving menus, tailoring and wearing clothing, and in useful skills of embroidering, knitting, and designing. In the days of a high rising economy, Northern students are wise to abide by the helpful hints offered in Home Economics.



The skill of embroidery is demonstrated by Laura Fike during Home Economics class.

Some of the latest fashions are discussed by Barb Miller and Jenny Yommer.

In-depth study of an era gives students a better understanding of our past. In a class project Jeanette Harman, Becky Harman, Susan Thomas and Sandy Sisler portray the dress of women in the 20's.

Backrounds of American history form the basis for eighth grade social studies.

Social Studies Inspires Students To Express Themselves Through

History

It looks as though time has stepped back to the roaring 20's as Teri Broadwater, Debbie Bowman, and Julie Bowser model fashions from the past.

Jumping hurdles is an exercise in eye-foot co-ordination which David Hollada demonstrates.

Special Ed. Provides New Techniques To Develop Skills

Special Education at Northern High helps students with special problems. Miss Smith and Mrs. Beachy, along with aides Mrs. Fratz and Mrs. Margroff, work with students to help them gain insights into school life and school subjects of study. These students enjoy their learning experiences and profit from the individual help and attention they receive in this setting.

In one section of the annex, Miss Smith shows Andy Zuckerman some parts of a crossword puzzle while Mrs. Fratz helps Shelley Lytle.

Going from chair to chair one step at a time, Terri Miller tests her balance. This is an exercise that Mrs. Luba, the instructor, uses to help Special Education students.

1. The Vocational Agriculture I class intently watches a slide presentation on how to judge Holsteins, which may benefit them in later Holstein judging contests.

Agriculture Students Learn By Doing

Vocational Agriculture is very beneficial to students in that they can learn by doing. Each day Mr. Loughrie has a learning activity. Many students learn the art of caring for plants, animals, and soil. Learning in detail the quality of each may take the students to College Park to judge them in a contest.

2. Parliamentary Procedure is practiced in Horticulture by Debbie Lively, Greg Gillum, Marla Beitzel, Wanda House and Scott Schwing.

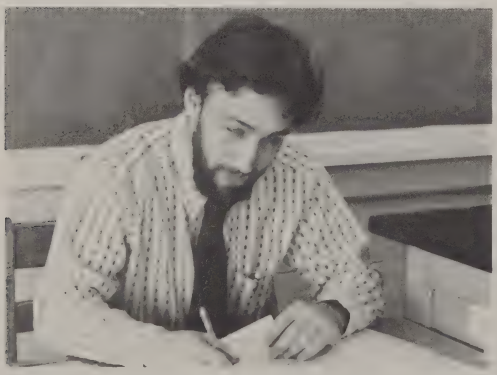
A temporary vacancy left in the Science Department by Mr. Frantz is filled by long-term substitute, Mrs. Carolyn Deniker.

In January, Miss Joan Jones, fills the position of Home Economics teacher, which was previously held by Mrs. Vent.

Changes Seen In Teaching Staff

Without making any class or schedule changes, some students find that there has been a change in teachers for their classes. A new face at Northern after the Christmas holidays belongs to Mrs. Joan Jones, who fills the vacancy left in the Home Economics Department when Mrs. Vent leaves Northern. In her position as long-term substitute for Mr. Frantz, Mrs. Carolyn Deniker uses her professional training in the field of science. In cooperation with Frostburg State College, teachers in various departments welcome student teachers who gain valuable experience in the classroom.

The Sociology class is taught by student teacher, Mr. Paul Vandenburg, for nine weeks.



Stepping into Mr. Keplinger's place at the front of his classes for nine weeks is Mr. Frank Wirsing, student teacher.

Student teaching can prove to be both exciting and hectic when the subject is drama. Mrs. Robin Tusing does her practice teaching with Ms. Rettel.

The Human Dynamics class express themselves freely as they discuss different soap operas.

Social Science Classes Express Thoughts Through Activities

Sign language is demonstrated by Marlin Schrock, Ken Bowman, Kenny Carr, Tony Doerr, and Connie Wakefield, all of the seventh period Sociology Class.

Discussion and finding information contribute to learning how society affects the world around us. Sociology and HD classes usually involve discussion in the learning program. Research is a part of obtaining information during POD class.

THE READER'S GUIDE becomes helpful to Greg Gillum, Susan Carey, and Steve Sisler as they research information for Consumer Education projects.

A new project for Don Gillum is doing a portrait of Burt Reynolds.

Talents Are Displayed Through Art

In a sequential three-step program, first-year art students begin with a basic study of materials and techniques. Senior high students study drawing, painting, printing and ceramics. Importance is also placed on experimentation and development of new and personal styles. Students who have successfully completed the first two courses may enroll in Advanced Art and work independently to research and develop the skills which interest them most.

The lobby showcase displays creativity of teachers in handcrafted articles.

Drawings and sand paintings are exhibited in the library.

Responsibilities Prepare Student Assistants For Future Experiences

Various faculty members at Northern have student assistants. Students give assistance in the music department, in the office, in the library and to individual teachers. Their duties range from shelving books in the library to running errands for a teacher or a member of the office staff. This technique is a good mode of learning, for while teachers and administration are being aided in even the most trivial tasks, students are being rewarded with responsibilities and experience that will benefit them in the future.

Photographs contribute greatly to the production of a yearbook. Dave Savage chooses the best photos to fit his layout pattern.

The position of NORTH STAR photographer involves dedication, travel and being in the right place at the right time. Here, Elaine Rodeheaver prepares to focus in on her subject.

Writing copy tends to bring on frustration, and Lois Maust expresses this as she struggles with spacing.

Group activity transforms the work load of Cheryl Landon , Rae Ann Brenneman, and Tammy Glisan into a more enjoyable task.

A great deal of time and cooperation is necessary for the success of an organization. Here, junior members of the FFA assemble for a club meeting.

The beginning of Future Farmers of America was marked in 1928. Over the past fifty years, millions of young men and women have passed through doors opened by the FFA to Agricareers of all types. Part of the success of FFA comes from the "learn by doing" process--a principle that has been the foundation of the FFA. This process, effectively put into practice by instructors and advisors, continues to move the FFA and vo-ag ahead. It also prepares America's young people for the variety of roles in the future of American agriculture.

Huskies Endure Tough Season

The Huskies open the season September 9 before a big home crowd, only to lose by a third quarter field goal to Berlin. But the Huskies come back the next week to score first, second, and third quarter touchdowns and beat Hancock to even their season record at 1-1. The rest of the season sees Northern coming out the losing end of close games. A blocked punt run in for a touchdown in the second quarter of the Bruce game, an overpowering fourth quarter by Parsons, and two long touchdown rushes by Beall, are causes of these disappointing losses. But the Huskies put it together to overpower Mountaineer 19-0 in the season finale.

Huskies Run To Victory

Huskies pose their greatest threat when their running game is intact. The key in both season victories is excellent execution of the running game. Senior tailback Ron Lipscomb, fourth leading rusher in the area, leads the attack with team highs of 785 yards gained rushing to score 30 points.

Volleyball Girls Offer Tough Competition

In its second season at Northern, Girls' Volleyball is quite popular. The fourteen girls, despite their 2-10 season record, show vast improvement in individual basic skills. Because of the short existance of the sport, team play is sometimes inconsistent; but the Huskies keep play going all three games in seven of their twelve matches. Hard serving in the third game of the Oldtown match by Amy Stanton gives the Huskies their first win of the season, while good team play and effective spiking overpower Southern.

Dedicated Girls' Team Strives For Victory

The girls basketball season starts out on a dismal note when they suffer a loss to Valley on December 7. From there they go on to lose a close game to Oldtown before pulling off their first win against arch-rival Southern in another hard-fought game. With a more experienced team, the girls offer their opponents tough competition throughout the rest of the season.

Hard workouts and dedication to practices improve Don Gillum's wrestling techniques.

First year wrestler, Dave Frazee, elates his teammates with a pin over his Southern opponent.

PERSONAL DEDICATION LEADS TO TEAM VICTORIES

As the season for the seventh and eighth grade wrestling team gets underway, Coach Garlitz conditions the future varsity wrestlers of NHS by scheduling matches against A.J. McMullen and Berlin. This gives our younger wrestlers time to develop their skills and gives them experience in competition.

Huskies Endure Up And Down Season

Huskie Grapplers thrill the student body with a tie in the season opener against visiting Southern. They then pull out a win against a tough Valley team before losing to ever-powerful Beall and Meyersdale. The Christmas Tournament at Beall finds Northern in 4th place with Sophomore Galen Kamp copping first place honors. The Huskies best Rockwood and Central Preston in a triangular meet, the first in Northern wrestling. In his performance with an opponent from Berlin, Jack Garlitz sets an unofficial national takedown record of sixteen, enroute to a 54-11 Huskie victory. Throughout the rest of the season, the Huskies are handed four consecutive losses to make their season record 4-7-1.

The referee flattens as he watches a Southern wrestler struggling against a Dave Frazee pin.

1. Intense concentration is visible on the faces of the team as they pull silently for a teammate. 2. Though he tries to free himself from Jim Warnick's iron grip, this Southern wrestler is soon pinned. 3. Using a head lock, Randy Broadwater pushes for a pin. 4. Duane Bittinger moves in for a fast takedown against his opponent from Rockwood.

Grapplers Lack Team Experience

As a whole, the team lacks experience, but no varsity wrestler goes without a victory. Each of the first year wrestlers works hard to contribute points for the overall team score. Leading the team, being undefeated in the regular season, is senior Randy Broadwater. He also places second in District Tournaments in Hagerstown and will go on to Regional competition at J.F.K. High School in Annapolis, MD.

1. In a triangular meet against Rockwood and Central Preston, Northern captures first place, and eight wrestlers gain first place trophies. 2. Coaches Garlitz and Kamp give moral support and advice to a wrestler during a brief time-out. 3. The referee prepares to slap the mat to signal a pin for Dale Carpenter against Southern. 4. Kurt Lear struggles to keep a Bruce opponent on his back.

1. Jim Spear powers past the Flintstone defense to score two of his seventeen points.

2. In what is supposedly a non-contact sport, Jeff Kamp is hacked while stretching for a lay-up.

3. Hustling to prevent an Oldtown pass inside, Jamie Workman checks his man at half court.

4. Driving around his defender, Scott Schwing adds two points as Jamie Workman watches expectantly.

5. Taking a shot from the corner is Marlin Schrock as Jim Spear turns to wait for a possible rebound.

Huskies Post Eleven-Game Win Streak

The Huskies open their 1977-78 campaign Dec. 6 at home against Bruce, where, despite the optimism of both team and coach, they lose. Twenty-seven turnovers and low scoring second and third quarters cause the Huskies to be stomped by Valley in the second game of the season. Needing a win to regain their confidence, they finally put team play together to come out victorious over the Mt. Savage Indians. The rest of the "first season" is up and down for the Huskies. Even though it looks good for the Huskies in the first quarter, with Tony Doerr scoring 14 points, Beall rebounds to outplay the Huskies the next three quarters for an easy victory. Northern participates in the second annual Snowball Classic at Southern during the Christmas break. Led by

1. Getting the ball while cutting through the lane, Phil Workman takes a short jumpshot. 2. Rising above the crowd, Tony Doerr powers in for a lay-up. 3. At the end of a fast break, Jim Spear sinks a lay-up over a shorter opponent from Flintstone. 4. Out-jumping his opponent from Southern, Bill Bender taps the ball to Marlin Schrock.

Tony Doerr's 32 point performance, the Huskies top Central Preston in the semi-final game. In a final Northern-Southern clash the Huskies are forced to accept second place in the tournament. Jim Spear is selected for the All-Tournament team. Due to bad weather conditions, Northern does not see basketball action the entire first three weeks of January. The Huskies start their "second season" Jan. 28 with a win, and continue to excite the fans with an eleven-game win streak. Highlight of this streak is a 55-52 win over cross-county rival Southern. Moving up to seventh place ranking in the CUMBERLAND TIMES, the Huskies go on to drop disappointing games to Beall and Southern, giving them a regular season record of 14-8.

Northern Intimidates Opponent With Powerful Inside Game

Along with the best record a Huskie team has posted in seven seasons, Northern also has one of its tallest teams. With seven players over six feet tall, Coach Speicher takes advantage of this asset by employing a new type of inside power attack to the Northern offense. Leading the "tall people's" intimidation inside are Tony Doerr, top scorer for the season, and Jim Spear. Starters Jamie Workman and Bill Bender head the team in assists.

1. Sandwiched between two defenders, Jamie Workman lays in a tough shot. 2. Displaying his perfect form, Bill Bender goes up for a jump shot. 3. Excitement runs high as the Varsity prepares to meet Southern in the finals of the Snowball Classic. 4. Starting off the second half, Jim Spear leaps high to take the tap.

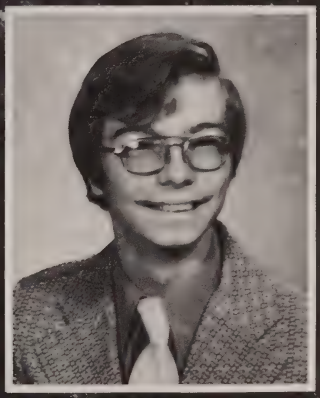
In Memoriam

Gregory Allen Brinegar
Nov. 21, 1957 - Dec. 3, 1976



Ronald Hugh Sisler
March 30, 1958 - August 19, 1977

Larry Wayne Durst
Sept. 26, 1961 - August 28, 1977

And together we stand at life's crossroads and view what we think is the end,
But God has a much bigger vision and He tells us it's only a bend --
For the road goes on and is smoother, and the "pause in the song" is a "rest,"
And the part that's unsung and unfinished is the sweetest and richest and best. . .

Quoted from "The End of the Road is but a Bend of the Road"

Fill In The Blank

$$I \div ? = 1$$

Before you write "1", think about it for a minute, Are you a student, a club member, a scholar, an athlete, a friend, a son, a daughter, a teacher, a husband, a wife, a parent? Chances are you fill the requirements for more than one of the above. All of us, during the course of a day, become many different people. But we must learn to keep our "selves" together so that we remain individuals.

I am many different personalities, yet I am ME.
One divided by ANY number is still one.

I Am An Individual!

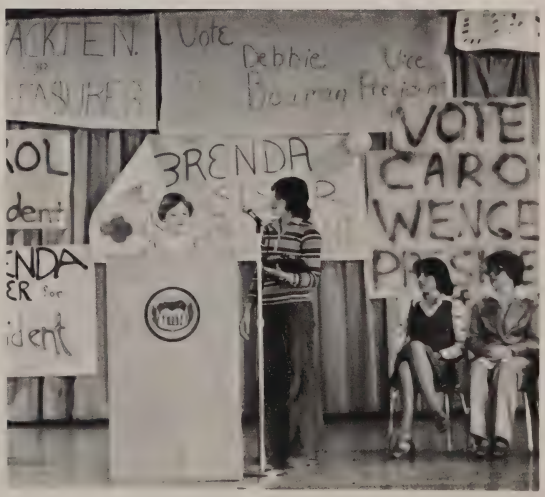
Political Campaign Stirs Excitement

Elections for student government stir many silvertongue politicians. They organize their own campaign, including managers, posters, slogans, and speeches. The rest of the student body practice their voting rights in genuine voting booths, which will aid them during general elections and presidential elections. The Student Government is being overhauled. The 1978-79 school year will bring about a student council, replacing the Student -Faculty Senate of recent years. This will consist of student representatives from each homeroom, the four officers, and one faculty advisor. Standing committees will still be organized with teacher advisors for such things as improvement of the school, activities, public relations, and the review of by-laws.

Everyone stands for the fight song as Carol Wengerd prepares to give the speech which gains her enough support to win the presidency.

Serious and sincere, Jackie Nieb presents her speech to the student body.



For Lori Taylor's campaign speech, she is interviewed by Nancy Jo Durst.

Bad Weather Hampers Early Season

When the Huskies' baseball practice opens, snow lies deep on the ball diamond. By the time the season opens, the snow is gone, but the cold and rain still hamper practices. The Huskies get in two games, losses to Rockwood and Salisbury, before bad weather causes a two-week lay off.

1. Phil Workman readies for the pitch, then takes a ball.
2. Watching intently as he waits for the pitch, Tim Miller crouches, ready for action.
3. Stretching to take the throw from an infielder, Bill Bender makes a put-out.
4. Following through after his pitch, Kurt Lear waits for the call.
5. Showing his batting form, Jamie Workman stretches out, preparing to swing.

Huskies Post Winning Season

After the layoff the Huskies turn the season around, starting with a win over Turkeyfoot. From there they go on to win five of their last seven games, their last loss being to Valley in the play-offs in a game played at G.C.C.

1. Taking a vicious cut at the ball is Bill Bender.
2. Poised and ready to break for home, Jamie Workman gazes intently at the batter.
3. As he scores a run, Phil Workman watches the action in the field.
4. After his hit, Kurt Lear breaks for first base.
5. Mr. McKenzie volunteers his services as an umpire for many of the home games.

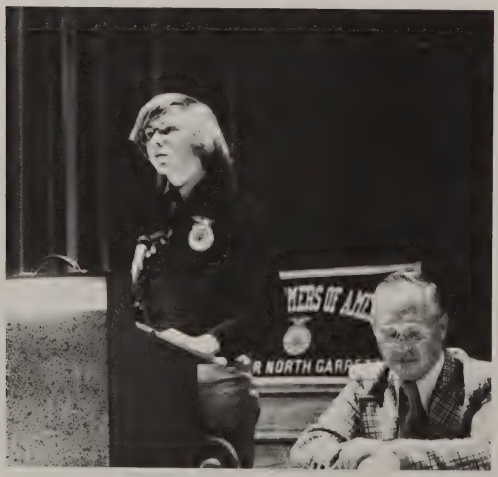
The Band Banquet is held to recognize students for their efforts in band. Jay Humberson receives the award for being the most improved Senior Band member.

The Arion Award is presented to Scott Schwing, a member of the Senior Band.

Students Honored At Banquets For Effort

Alice Brenneman recognizes the Garrett County Fair Buyers at the F.F.A. Banquet. Alice also receives an award for being the most valuable member of the F.F.A.

At the F.F.A. Banquet, Duane Hummel presents the Medallion Awards to Mr. and Mrs. J. Dean Rush and Mr. William Goldsborough.



A major feature of the athletic banquet is the presentation of awards. Football players receive their awards for various achievements throughout the football season. Mr. Settle, left, announces awards given to seniors: Randy Spear, Best Offensive Lineman; Ron Lipscomb, Best Offensive Back; Terry Brenneman, Best Defensive Lineman; Kurt Lear, Best Defensive Back; Bob Thomas, Barney Teats Memorial Award; and Dave Frazee, Golden Helmet.

Featured speaker at the banquet is Lou Pelliccioni, Assistant Coach at Concord University.

The close of the year is marked by banquets held to recognize students for their efforts and achievements throughout the year. Three major banquets each year are the FFA, Band, and Athletic banquets. Parents and friends of students in these organizations also enjoy the meals and entertainment.

Master of Ceremonies, Mike Saturday, opens the 1977-78 athletic banquet program.

Parents, friends, and relatives enjoy the dinner that is especially prepared for the athletic banquet. Patty Fauber and Sandi Sisler are two of the participants in girls' sports.

Precious Reflections Mark A Moonlit Prom Night

The theme, "Precious Reflections," is included in the mural at the head table.

A special archway is designed to welcome the students as they enter the glittery, star-filled dreamland.

The 1978 prom is held in the McHenry House at the Wisp. At the banquet zany awards are presented to graduating students. Following the banquet the tables are moved and the hall is prepared for the guests to dance.

Dance And Drama Productions

In the past few years, with the addition of Ms. Rettel and Mr. Tusing to the teaching staff at Northern, the art of forms of dance and drama become more prominent at Northern High School.

Ms. Rettel looks forward to future drama productions.

As director of the troupe, Mr. Randy Tusing has put forth a great deal of energy to present concerts in dance!

Members of Dance Troupe rehearse the "Cantina" number from "Star Wars" in preparation for the Dance Concert.

The Dance Troupe has done three concerts including A DANCER'S DREAM and A SALUTE TO THE MOVIE. The drama department has staged various productions including TAMING OF THE SHREW, as adaptation of the Shakespearian play. Both departments have contributed a great deal of time and effort to the cultural advancement of Northern.

As A SALUTE TO THE MOVIE approaches, Elaine Rodeheavor and Terri Warnick rehearse "Stayin' Alive".

The W.O.W. History Award given by Mrs. Yunker is presented to Jeanette Harman and Howard Ross for their outstanding accomplishments in the field of U.S. History.

Danny Beiler and Sandi Sisler are the first members of a junior class at NHS to receive the I Dare You Award.

Students Recognized At Awards Assembly

At the awards assembly many students are awarded for their accomplishments during the past school year. Business, phys. ed., journalism, music, sports, and history are some of the various awards presented at this assembly. Along with the previous awards two are presented from the Athletic Department, the Barney Teets and Lee Sutherland Awards. In accordance with a change in policy of the Danforth Foundation, the I Dare You Award for outstanding leadership and achievement in the community and school is given for the first time to a junior girl and boy.

The top 10 percent of the senior class are presented certificates by Mr. Bittinger recognizing their academic leadership during their time spent in high school: Cindy Vitez, Patty Oester, Lois Maust, Scott Glotfelty, Connie Wakefield, Becky Stanton, Vickie Miller, Cora Humberson, and Diane Evans. Not pictured are Rae Ann Brenneman, Marie Guard, Scott Schwing, Steve Sisler, and Ethel Yoder.

Seniors Wind Up Yearly Activities

1. Graduation day is not far off, and Ann Hershberger and Patty Bender want to be sure their gowns fit.
2. Memory books contain many written pages of the school years which have passed. Tammy Glisan, Pam Metheny, Diane Evans, and Rae Ann Brenneman exchange books for autographs.
3. Senior name cards have finally arrived, and Carla Bender examines hers happily before trading cards with Patty Bender and Lois Maust.
4. A few of the seniors try on their caps and gowns.

The table lies in preparation for the Senior Dinner.

A cake has been decorated in honor of the graduating class of '78.

Seniors wait in line to fill their plate with various foods.

As the 1978 school year comes to a close, the seniors prepare for the coming events. As graduation time nears, the caps, gowns, announcements, and senior keys are received. The seniors count down days until graduation, and those last ones are busy with the dinner and the trip to King's Dominion. Although our times at NHS will be over soon, our memories will always be with us.

Seniors enjoy their dinner with the company of their closest friends.

Commencement Highlights Senior Life

Last minute preparations for the long-awaited school graduation are being made by Sarah Friend.

Co-valedictorian Vicki Miller delivers her commencement speech to fellow classmates.

A valedictory address is also given by Scott Glotfelty at Graduation '78.

The senior class mantel is presented to Brenda Sisler, incoming senior class president, by Becky Stanton, president of the class of '78.

Commencement exercises again take place at Northern High, but this ceremony, unlike all others, holds a unique interest for the class of '78. The spotlight has been turned to recognize the achievements of each individual in the senior class and gives each educated student the confidence needed for life's future endeavors.

Platform guests look on as Mr. Bittinger carries on the graduation ceremonies. The Garrett County Board of Education is represented by Mr. Herbert Harman, Mr. Robert Diehl, and Mr. Brooks Hamilton, who awarded the diplomas. Mr. Hamilton is assisted by Mr. Yunker, senior class advisor. The Rev. Stanley Weese, far right, has been chosen by the senior class to deliver the graduation sermonette.

The salutatorian, Cora Humberson, is a recipient of the "I Dare You" award.

Also receiving the "I Dare You" award from Mr. Bittinger is Steve Sisler.

Not The End, But The Beginning

The end of senior year is like standing at the ocean's edge and feeling the sand washing away from beneath my feet. It's happening too fast for me to keep my balance, and I'm being swept along in a tide of events, which all mark the end of a segment of my life. I feel as if I'm on my way to a desert island, never to see my friends again. I must gather some sand and seashells, memories of this year, to take with me, so I will never lose touch with these days. We are all beginning to realize that we will soon be parting to lead our own lives; our time in the sun is drawing to a close. We have been bound together by a strong force, but the waves will weather the storm, and eventually we will find ourselves in smoothly flowing waters.
